

Important News: All financial remedy courts are to be included in the Transparency Pilot scheme from 29 January 2025

Further to my series of articles about the Transparency Pilot Scheme – it has just been announced that from 29 January 2025, the Transparency Reporting Pilot for financial remedy proceedings is extending to all financial remedy proceedings in all courts. The pilot will also now run until 29 January 2026.

Some modifications to the interim transparency order and final transparency standard order have also been published. Copies attached. <https://www.judiciary.uk/wp-content/uploads/2024/12/ReportingPilot.TransparencyOrder-11December2024.docx>

It is evident that the movement towards greater transparency in the family courts for children and financial matters is marching on.

Increased rights for journalists and legal bloggers to report on family law cases will undoubtedly be a factor which strengthens the appeal to clients of settling family law matters outside the court arena.

Other articles written by Lucy Greenwood on this topic can be seen here:

 The Transparency Pilot – A Relaxation of Rights to Privacy in Family Proceedings

17 February 2023

● The Family Court's Transparency Pilot Scheme: One Year On & the introduction of a Similar Pilot for Financial Remedy Proceedings

11 January 2024

● Family Court Reporting Update - Further Courts are introduced to the scheme

11 November 2024

iFLG settle most of their cases. If you require further advice about any family law matter, please feel free to contact Lucy Greenwood . We have specialist family lawyers to help you with national and international financial and children law matters.

Lucy Greenwood

lucy.greenwood@iflg.uk.com

The International Family Law Group LLP

www.iflg.uk.com

© December 2024